VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE.
HOUSE OF DELEGATES.

Nov. 14

Mr. Lane moved for a new writ of election for the county of Nottingham—one of the returned members, Thomas Wells having refused to take the oath prescribed by the duelling act. To prove this fact, he read the certificate of Mr. Carson, one of the executive council, before whom Mr. Wells had refused to take the oath.

Mr. Doddridge enquired, whether there ought not to be a resolution, stating that Thomas Wells had disqualified himself, and declaring his seat vacant.

The journals of 1812 were consulted for the case of John Taylor, a member from Lunenburg; who was engaged in some dispute about the war, and in consequence of what took place, had felt some scruples in taking the oath—he submitted to the House how far the oath was consistent with the genius and spirit of the constitution. This memorial being submitted to the committee of P. and E.

they reported, that the prayer of the memorial ought to be rejected—a proposition to amend this report by declaring that it was not necessary for him to take the oath, was negatived, yeas 19, Noes 108—A new writ of election was then ordered, in his case on the ground that he had disqualified himself by refusing to take the oath.

This case being read Mr. Doddridge moved a reference of T. Wells's case to the C. of P. & E.—Mr. Lane did not see the necessity of such a reference, all the facts being before the House.—Mr. Doddridge only wished the same course in this as in Taylor's case. Why depart from the solemn precedent laid down in that instance?—The motion was lost yeas 73, noes 86—After which a preamble and resolution were agreed to, stating that Thomas Wells having refused to take the oath prescribed by the act to prevent duelling, therefore a new writ of election issue for the county of Nottoway.

Mr. Colston presented a petition from sundry citizens of Hampshire county praying that a certain part of that county may be added to Berkeley.—The petitioners complain, that they have to travel 50 miles to their court house, over bad roads, and almost cut off by a large and impassable stream, whereas, they are only distant 20 miles from Berkeley Court house—Referred.

Unchartered Banks.
Mr. Mercer (of L.) from the committee to whom was re-committed the bill to suspend in part the law of the last session prohibiting the circulation of notes of unchartered banks, reported the bill with one amendment: viz. to add the words "Bank of Winchester in Virginia," so as to entitle that bank to the same exemption with those of Waterford and Martinsburg.

Mr. Wilson (of Monongalia) moved to amend the amendment by adding also the "Monongalia Farmers Bank of Virginia"—He stated, that after the law was passed by the last session, this bank began to curtail its discounts, and has continued to curtail from 5 to 10 per cent for every 60 days, that they were endeavouring to wind up their affairs as soon as possible, they had not intended to make any new discounts, but such as were payable on the 5th of this month—He hoped that this institution would have the same indulgence as others—he had no statement, but expected one, to show the state of the bank, but he knew they had attempted to draw in their paper, without ruining their dealers.

Mr. Mercer suggested to the gentleman, that he had better make his motion by way of a distinct amendment to the bill itself, as each of the banks ought to stand on its proper basis—He wished that the gentlemen from Frederick, who could give information about the bank of Winchester, would rise and satisfy the House, that this bank had attempted to comply with the law. Mr. Wilson withdrew his amendment. Mr. Sexton rose in consequence of Mr. Mercer's appeal, and stated that he had evidence, that the bank meant to curtail its discounts and wind up its affairs. They had curtailed ten per cent; though they had not advanced so rapidly in their object as the bank of Loudoun. The amendment reported by the committee was then adopted.

Mr. Wilson moved to add "The Mon-ongalia Farmers Company of Virginia," after the word "Winchester" just added, agreed to.

Mr. Marshall moved to add "The Warrenton Company" in the county of Fauquier. He had no interest or connection with that bank, and therefore he could not positively state its situation, but he had been told by its President, that they were endeavouring to comply with the requisition of the law. His colleague informed him, they had curtailed so largely, their dealers could not comply with their demands. It has so happened, that he has no documents with him, but the bank meant to have sent them.
If he had the least suspicion that they meant not to comply with the law, he would not have made this application.
But if this indulgence be granted to one bank, that is striving to obey the law, why not to all! The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Jackson (of Harrison) moved to add "The Saline Bank." Though he had received no communication from that bank, he could say that they had negotiated no new paper since the last summer, that they had curtailed 20 per cent for 60 days, and intended to wind up their affairs.

Mr. Mercer said, that he had heard of certain reports in relation to the Saline Bank, injurious to the credit of the institution, and derogatory to the character of the gentlemen who conduct it, and that it gave him pleasure to have it in his power, by calling on the gentleman from Harrison to explain them, to give an opportunity to vindicate the institution, and the reputation of those concerned.

Mr. Jackson requested the member from Loudoun to state the nature of the reports alluded to.

Mr. Mercer replied that one report was, that the Directors or a majority of them had determined to divide the stock among themselves.

Mr. Jackson answered that, that report was utterly untrue.

Mr. Mercer, then stated, he had been further informed, that they had made an attempt to take the funds from the possession of the cashier, who was under the necessity of defending them by force, and that an injunction had been applied for by some of the parties concerned, to the Chancellor, which had been granted.

Mr. Jackson said, that report was also untrue, but it was true, however, that the Directors had resolved to make some considerable loans, such as would have had the effect of increasing their discounts to the amount of forty thousand dollars, or upwards. But that they reconsidered the subject and reversed their order, and came to a determination to make no farther loans, and had commenced a curtail in order to comply with the law.

He admitted that an injunction had been granted, principally, as believed, from an apprehension that the Banks would continue to discount and disobey the law.
And the principal object of the bill, as he understood it was, to retain discounts and dissolve the partnership.

Mr. Doddridge said, that he had been applied to as counsel for the directors in that injunction—and supposed that on that occasion he had made himself acquainted with all the facts; and if so, the statements made by the member from Harrison were strictly correct.

The proposed amendment was then agreed to.

Mr. Mercer next moved to add the "Leesburg Union Company"—stating, that no banking company was perhaps better entitled to indulgence—that their curtailments constituted a moiety of the debt due to them, and that they were going on, to the last moment he had heard from them. He knew, that a new bank had been agitated there; but he wished the two to stand on different grounds—He disclaimed any sort of connection with either of these institutions. He had originally wished to discourage their establishment; confessed that they were imprudently established; but stated that they had now entangled in their desti-nities, the wealth, comfort and independence of that county; which might suffer materially if the legislature compelled the banks to descend with rapidity; that if very heavy curtailments were made, or if all their debts were called in at once, the pressure upon their customers must be distressing. What would be the effect of winding up at once, two banks in one county, which had loaned out $2, 3, or 400,000 dollars? He was the last to countenance any violation of the law; but he did sincerely believe they were attempting bona fide to wind up their concerns. All that they asked was a short time to get in their debts. Grain was the great staple of that country; and till the present crop could be got to market, the people could not meet all the demands of the banks. The amendments were agreed to.

Mr. Bukey moved to add "The Western Bank of Virginia." He understood they were about to wind up their business; knows little of banking, and has received no instructions upon this subject —but hopes for the same indulgence to be given to this bank as to others. A distinct amendment agreed to.

Mr. Doddridge moved to add the "Charleston Manufacturing and Exporting Company."—They were winding up, and meant to place their funds in an institution in a neighboring state, in Ohio.
Amendment agreed to.

Mr. Irwin moved to add the "Ohio Company"—He could say from his own knowledge, they were settling up their business finally. Mr. Doddridge too knew, that they were winding up and transferring their funds also to Clair-ville, state of Ohio. Amendment agreed to.

Mr. Mercer said, that as he understood the senate would perhaps rise after this week, he hoped the bill to suspend the penalties of the law after the 15th of this month, would be engrossed, as amended, to be read a third time. Agreed to.

Mr. Robertson delivered a message from the senate, stating that they had passed the bill for suspending the operation of the law to provide more effectually for the payment of specie, &c. This bill has therefore become a law, and is as follows:

AN ACT
To suspend the operation of an Act entitled an Act to provide more effectually for the payment of specie by the several Banks of this Commonwealth.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia, that the operation of the Act, entitled an Act to provide more effectually, for the payment of specie by
the several banks of this Commonwealth, be, and the same is hereby suspended, until the fifteenth day of December next.

This act shall commence, and be in force from the time of passing thereof.

Mr. Colston presented a petition from sundry inhabitants of Berkeley & Hampshire, praying the creation of a new county out of parts of those counties.
Referred.

Mr. Atkinson moved a resolution to proceed on 2d December, to the election of a judge of the general court for the 2d circuit, to supply the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Judge Semple. Agreed to.

A petition was presented by Mr. Tazwell, from Wm. Cooper, of the Isle of Wight, praying the legislature to change the surname of his son to Parker: Josiah Parker having bequeathed to him all his property on this express condition—to which condition, there is no limitation as to time. Referred.

A petition was presented by Mr.
Chamberlayne, from sundry inhabitants of Henrico, city of Richmond, Hanover and Louisa, praying for a turnpike road from Owen's tavern, (at the north end of the Brook turnpike) to Ground Squirrel Bridge in Hanover. Referred.

A petition, by Mr. Colston, from sundry inhabitants of Berkeley, stating in very forcible terms the grievances under which they labor from the existing law respecting delinquent lands, and praying the repeal of some of its provisions: they say, they cannot recognise any principle by which property worth thousands ought to be sold for perhaps a few cents: that its retrospective feature is also peculiarly odious, third persons being liable to injury, and land frequently remaining in the commissioner's books charged to one person, while they have been actually transferred to others who pay the taxes on them. Referred to the C. for courts of justice. On Mr. Doddridge's motion, that committee was instructed to enquire generally whether the law referred to by the petitioners does not require a amendment.

A petition from Catharine Evans, of Monongalia, praying for a divorce, her husband having deserted her the very morning after her marriage: and at this moment residing in Kentucky with a concubine.

Mr. Wilson, of Kenawha, presented an elaborate and very able petition from sundry inhabitants of that county: setting forth their great natural advantages, of fine river communications, of an abundant of fossils, as salt nitre, iron—but stating their want of a banking capital to improve these advantages—that the capital of the existing banks, is, as to them, perfectly dead; that their circulating medium is a curious mixture of chartered, unchartered, fictitious, private or corporate paper—that the Banks of Pennsylvania, Ohio, &c. to which they are indebted for most of this paper, now draw from them those profits of banking which they ought to enjoy themselves—they point the attention of the Legislature to the great Western Communication which might be effected by good roads between the Kenawha and Greenbrier rivers—they appeal to the old dominion; and ask, if the other states are to reap the golden harvest of the trade of the West? They conceived that these great objects might be accomplished, as well as their own embarrassments removed by the creation of a bank, ing capital—they therefore, pray either for a branch of the existing banks, with a capital of 2 or 3,000,000 dollars to be extended to Charleston, or the establishment of an independent Bank in that place—Referred.

UNCHARTERED BANKS.

Mr. Mercer, of L. informed the House, that he had understood the Senate had dispersed for a short time, and would meet again for the purpose of acting on the Unchartered Bank Bill, if it should pass this house—that they only waited for a decision on this question, when they would adjourn for a few days—He therefore, moved, to take up the engrossed bill for suspending in part the law of the last session.

The House agreed to consider it—and the question occurred, with what time they should fill up the blanks in the bill—in other words, how long they would give the Unchartered Banks to wind up their concerns?

Mr. Mercer, moved to fill the blank with 1st May, 1817.

Mr. Doddridge, wished the 31st Aug.
He was of opinion that they could not wind up their affairs before that time—He compared the operations demanded of them with the operations demanded of the Chartered Banks of Virginia. Both laws had been passed in the same session —both had gone into effect about the same time. But the operation required of the Unchartered Banks were much greater than those demanded of the old Banks. The old Banks had only to pay Specie on the 15th of November—they had to prepare for this event only. But the unchartered institutions were called on to wind up their affairs altogether, all their paper was to be drawn in; all their debt collected. While the dealers of the unincorporated banks then were called upon to pay up their whole debt, those of Richmond were only required to pay up as much as would permit the Banks to resume specie payments, which by the operation of the war they had ceased to do, Mr. D. said that he did not know that any measure like the bill proposed last winter, for aiding the banks, would be asked for during the present session; it was possible that after this session, the whole matter would lay over till the next session, when a banking system might be brought forward for the west, similar to the existing system of the Virginia banks. This law then was perhaps sufficient for the present. The Charlestown Manufacturing and Exporting Company might perhaps wind up their concerns sooner than the 31st of August; but in favor of that Company he begged leave to say, that the Revenue of Brooke County could not this year have been collected without the aid of that bank. Besides, they mean to transfer their funds to the state of Ohio—yet, without having the time which they suggested, their dealers might be very severely oppressed. If the unchartered banks do not wind up by that time, the law may be put in force against them at the fall terms of the Superior Courts. Where then is the objection? If they do not wind up by the time allowed them, you will accomplish your purpose, by destroying these institutions.

Mr. Mercer, hoped that the gentleman from Brooke would not think him inimical to the period which he had selected—but really he had been willing to take the 1st May, rather than have no indulgence—for half a loaf was better than no bread. The reason, why he had selected that day, was, because, as he had already stated, the staple commodity of his part of the country was grain, and that the present crop would be at market by the 1st of May. But in the western countries, the case was different; for there their market is on the Mississippi, & the whole year might be necessary on account of the swollen river; to bring their crops to market. They might require, therefore, a different time for settling up with the banks. As the banks in his part of the country were introduced into the same bill with them, he was willing to accommodate them in their wishes. He would not agree with the gentleman from Brooke, that this would be the only favor sought during the present session; for there is no connection between this subject and the establishment of other banks—but that point was not at present within the view of the house. But why not allow these banks a longer time to close their concerns? If they have begun to wind up their affairs, they would certainly go on. The House were satisfied, that they had already curtailed at least 30 per cent. What is the effect? They have already deprived themselves of half their profits by this operation, and yet all the expenses of their institution still continue. You have therefore the best assurance in the regard they pay to their own interests, that they will go on to close their concerns.

If, for instance, the capital of a bank was $100,000, at 6 per cent, their profit would be $6,000, out of which all their expenses and dividends were to be drawn—but call in one half, $50,000, and out of $50,000, their interest, they must pay all their expenses, &c. If then the house are satisfied, that they are bona fide anxious to wind up, why refuse them time to do so.—Mr. M. begged them to consider what hostility it would manifest if this bill were rejected. He knew it would be a subject of awful magnitude to the banks of Loudoun were brought to an immediate close.—They did not deserve this treatment.—He begged the house to recollect that these institutions had commenced with no intention of doing ill, as was last winter evinced by a reference to the character of those who were interested in them; for the stockholders, as well as directors, were men of the first character and great wealth. Beginning then in no criminal intent why should they be oppressed? all that can be said against them, is, that they had acted imprudently; because, though they had expected a charter, they went on doing business without knowing whether the Legislature would grant it. They had gone on enlarging the county in their transactions, but all men are liable to imprudence. They are now curbing; they are calling in their debts as fast as possible, though corn bears so high a price. To the Dealers, it is a question of justice, but many persons have an interest in these institutions. They are neither stockholders nor dealers. Every one who had a bill of those banks in his pocket, were interested in their safety. How can these be paid without pressing the dealers? Half of the paper of these banks is already drawn in. They cannot draw in the balance, without calling in their discounts, they press the dealers, and suits, litigation and ruin, close the scene. If they were criminals, arraigned at the bar of this house, it would be a different case, but these men are only imprudent, for themselves, he disclaimed any sort of personal interest in their concerns.

Mr. Doddridge wished to give the gentlemen from Loudoun the information he had sought; he said that the market of his part of the country, was to be found on the bank of the Mississippi; that their exports were made in the spring to N. Orleans, and other places down that river, and that the traders generally returned in August; that the 1st of August would be the period, when the banks could call in their paper, and their dealers would be able to pay them.

Some conversation passed between Messrs. Maury and Doddridge as to the sitting of the courts in the western country. The proposition to fill the first blank with the "31st," was carried without a division, the other with "Aug."—Ayes 101, Nays 58.

On the question, Shall the bill pass? Mr. Tazewell rose to enquire what would be the effect of not passing the bill? In other words, to what act of the banks will the penalties of the former law attach? If they have only to wind up their concerns, by calling in their debts, is there any penalty attached to it? Does not the law merely punish them for issuing new paper only? His recollection of the law he contended, was not very distinct—but he well recollected the case of the old U. States Bank—it was limited by its charter to twenty years—that charter expired on the 4th March, 1811—they petitioned Congress to renew it for two years only, to collect their debts—Congress refused—but he knew that they had sustained no embarrassment on this account, in collecting their debts. Perhaps he was mistaken as to this law; that other penalties might exist; that other acts might be punished, of which he was not aware.

Mr. Mercer stated, in reply, that the gentleman from Norfolk had fallen into a mistake; and read the law to prove, that it was not merely issuing new paper, but continuing to discount notes, &c. which, under the law, would subject them to its penalties.

Mr. Tazewell—I am perfectly satisfied sir: I will give the bill my cordial support. The bill was then passed without a division, and Mr. Mercer instructed to carry it to the senate.

Several petitions of a local or limited description were presented during this day's sitting; which we shall hereafter notice in their further stages.

Friday, Nov. 15.

The proceedings on this day are not very interesting. They consisted principally in the reading and reference of petitions.

An amendment was received from the Senate to the resolution of this house, fixing the 2d day of December for electing a Judge of the General Court, 1st Circuit, to supply the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Judge Daniel. The Senate changes the day to the 9th Dec.—Concurred in.

The Auditor's Annual Report was received. He complains of the delay of the commissioners of the land-tax in returning their lists, and proposes a fine upon the delinquents of one dollar each day, till their lists are sent in, &c.

Mr. Heath presented the petition of Sophia McKawa, praying a divorce.

Mr. Wyatt, a petition from Charlotte county, praying that runaway slaves, instead of being confined in jails, may be hired out, &c.

Mr. Heath, a petition from sundry inhabitants of Culpeper, Fauquier, and Prince William, praying the establishment of a bank at Dumfries.

Mr. Irvine, a memorial of the citizens of Ohio county, praying the establishment of a bank at Wheeling.

Mr. Robertson moved for leave to bring in a bill to suspend the 10th section of the act to prohibit the circulation of private bank notes.—This whole law is now suspended by an act just passed, with the exception of this section, which forbids the issuing of small notes under one dollar. Mr. R. stated, that as they had suspended the law compelling the banks to pay specie, we should be exposed to great embarrassments in our dealings, without the aid of that sort of change which is now used. Leave was refused.

Some other business was done, when Mr. Robertson asked leave to bring in a bill to explain and amend the tenth section, &c. He dwelt upon the necessity of this small circulating medium to carry on our dealings. It was the creature of sheer necessity. It was not the object, as many had supposed, to issue any new change by the City of Richmond, but the act required explanation: For, it was supposed, that to circulate even the old paper subjected any one who did it to a fine of 5 dollars.

Mr. Doddridge, though he thought it obvious that the law applied not to those who received, but issued the note, was willing to grant the leave.

Mr. Mercer was willing to suspend the section till the 3d January, because he understood it to be the object of the bank committee not to suspend that law after the 15th Dec. unless the banks would pay out small change on the 2d of January and besides, as he understood the banks meant to do so by that day.

Mr. Lane opposed it, because he thought the law affected only those who issued new paper and there was enough of the old to serve for circulation.

Mr. Chamberlayne had heard that the corporation of Richmond meant to issue $10,000 of new paper. He expatiated on the frauds which this small change had introduced, and was opposed to the leave.

Mr. Robertson did not know where the gentlemen obtained his information, but he was authorized by a member of the common hall to say, that they intended to issue new bills. If this small medium were altogether suppressed, it might be difficult to get a letter from the post-office or any article at market.

Mr. Scott wished to know, if the corporation of Richmond had redeemed any of their bills?

Mr. Robertson said that though perhaps like some persons, they might not be able to redeem them at this moment, they would be ready to do it hereafter.

Mr. Scott contended, that as they had received Virginia notes in exchange for these bills, they ought to have been ready to redeem them with Virginia money.

Mr. Tazewell was for reference on every ground. If the law be ambiguous, and two gentlemen of the bar had put different constructions on it, it ought to be explained: if frauds had been committed, it ought to be amended: what amendment so proper as additional penalties to suppress and punish these frauds?

Mr. Thwait wished for the return of the gold and silver age, but discriminations were always odious. We had already given a little more life to the paper system, why not extend the same indulgence to small bills?

Motion was agreed to, and the resolution referred to a committee, viz. Messrs. Robertson, Hay, Mercer, of L. Thwait, Tazewell, Taylor of Chesterfield, Starke of Hanover, Bryce, Lewis of Campbell, and Rose.

Adjourned.

The chamberlain is at all times ready to redeem them with Virginia notes to the amount of one dollar and upwards. But who will exchange these small bills, when they are at a premium in the market, except when they are so torn that they will not pass in the market? At least seven thousand dollars of these tattered bills have been already redeemed. This note is rendered unnecessary by the enquiry of the respectable gentleman from York county. We seize this occasion to add, that on Thursday bills to the amount of $1002 50 were issued; but that the Corporation did not and do not mean, and have given no authority to issue one cent more.

Alexandria and the same distance from Georgetown, contains about seven hundred and fifty acres. Little River Turnpike the dwelling house. The situation is handsome, and remarkably healthy; the water is good and abundant. The soil which was originally excellent, has for some years past had the advantage of imon all grasses and grains. The fields present a good surface for cultivation; and these, now unfilled, are covered with red clover. The orchards are very large and thrifty; the collection of table fruit is choice and various. The mansion is spacious and well constructed; the out-those for farming purposes are expensive, and excellent in their kind.

For a gentleman of leisure this would be a delightful residence; and a profitable

To the Public.

Having understood that certain persons who are desirous of obtaining the appointment of Harbor Masters, which hold, have circulated a report that the resigned that office, and have by means of this story, prevailed upon several respectable citizens to recommend the proper persons to fill the pretended vacancy—I beg leave respectfully to inform my fellow citizens, that I never did resign the said office which is all important to me in my old age, nor have I any idea of doing so. It is true that I have been afflicted with an illness which has prevented me from giving that PERSONAL attention to the duties of the office which I wished; but, thank God, I am fast recovering, and hope soon to be able to attend to business as usual.

In the mean time, I humbly trust, that my fellow citizens will not be imposed upon, to give their aid in promoting the views of my enemies, and thus to deprive me of the civil support of my old age.
